

FEMA's Office of External Affairs has developed a series of links to vital information on how to prepare for a disaster and, if applicable, apply for disaster assistance. To follow Hurricane Irene's path and related weather predictions, updates are available at the following links.

To follow Hurricane Irene's path and related weather predictions, updates are available at the following link:

<http://www.nhc.noaa.gov/>

Another tool to stay up-to-date on latest developments is FEMA's Blog. It is a place to find the latest information on what we are doing to prepare for, respond to, or recover from the many hazards we face. The blog can be found here:

<http://blog.fema.gov/>

Additionally, FEMA's mobile website makes it easier for smartphone users to access critical information regarding emergency preparedness and what to do in the event of a disaster. The site is found at:

<http://m.fema.gov/>

Other ways you can stay informed of FEMA's activities online: videos and podcasts available at www.fema.gov/medialibrary

and

www.youtube.com/fema

; follow FEMA on Twitter at <http://www.twitter.com/fema>

and on FaceBook at www.facebook.com/fema

.

